

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Mr. Secretary and Gentlemen of the House of 1917:

I thank you for this election to serve you as Speaker. It is an honor greater than I ever expected to receive. I realize my inability properly to fill the office. I know my deficiencies better than you do, but I believe that with your assistance I may perform the duties. It is only by working together in harmony that we can do our best, so I call on you all to do what I feel you will gladly do,—to give of your best work. I will do the best I can, and, while I shall make many mistakes, they will be of the head and not of the heart.

In the work of legislation we must remember that it is the quality and not the quantity of the product that will measure its value. We want a short session but not if it must be made so by hasty or ill-considered legislation. Let our work be done as quickly as is consistent with proper consideration but above all let it be well done.

Again I thank you and call your attention to the business of the Session.

The Speaker directed the House to the election of a Clerk for the two years next ensuing.

Mr. Prouty of Newport presented the name of Harry A. Black of Newport. No other nominations being made, the Speaker directed that the vote be taken viva voce.

Or a member may move "That debate on the whole question do now close," and if the motion be decided in the affirmative, debate shall be closed on the whole question, and the main question shall be put in its order; and no motion, except a motion to substitute either of said motions for the other, shall be in order until the main question is put and decided.

The Speaker laid before the House a report from the committee on suffrage and elections, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

The committee on suffrage and elections, to which was referred a resolution respecting the right of the returned member from the town of Barnet, to a seat in this House, respectfully report, that they have considered the same and find the following facts:

That Mr. Leslie H. Thornton, the returned member from the town of Barnet held at the time of his election, the appointment of Postmaster in his town.

That the Constitution of this State makes certain offices incompatible, the language used being, "Nor shall any person holding an office of profit or trust, under the authority of Congress be eligible to any appointment in the Legislature, etc."

That the office of Postmaster is an office of "Profit or trust under the authority of Congress," was held by our Supreme Court in McGregor vs. Balch, 14 Vt. 428, and this case has been recognized as authority in the subsequent decisions of this House.

That there was no evidence of lack of good faith on the part of the returned member and it appears that the Constitutional requirements were not fully understood by him at the time of his election.

Your committee have made full inquiry into the facts of the case and made a careful examination of all of the authorities at their command, with the end in view to seat rather than to deprive any town of representation in this House.

Therefore, your committee find, that the returned member from the town of Barnet, is not eligible to a seat in this House and recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

(H. R. 8.) Resolved, that Mr. Leslie H. Thornton the returned member of this House from the town of Barnet, is not entitled to a seat in this House for the reason that he held at the time of his election an "office of profit or trust under the authority of Congress," and his seat is therefore declared vacant.

Help us to realize that this legacy comes to us not by chance but is the product of the struggle and the suffering and the self-sacrifice of the centuries. Help us to realize that this precious legacy which came to us from the fathers is not by us to be wasted but is to be preserved and improved and by us passed on to those who shall come after us. May the fire of patriotism burn brightly upon the hearthstone of every home throwing out rays of light and heat which shall dispel the darkness of ignorance and the coldness of indifference, and cause intelligent love for Thee and for men and for country to be the dominant passion of our lives. To this end bless us in the discharge of the duties of this day and hear our prayer, we beseech Thee. Amen.

To the House of Representatives:

The committee on state institutions to which was assigned the duty of visiting the Vermont State School for Feeble-Minded Children respectfully report that they have made the authorized visit, inspected the property, and have entered upon investigation of charges made against the management of the school. It has held two hearings at which testimony was taken relative to alleged abuses.

The committee is of the unanimous opinion that a further and more complete investigation is necessary and to that end it recommends that the committee be authorized to continue its work in order that any false accusations may be authoritatively denied and if abuses are actually found to exist that measures may be taken for their correction.

To that end it is recommended that the committee be empowered to hear evidence, to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpoena or otherwise and the production of papers and books before it at the expense of the state, and to employ a stenographic reporter at the expense of the state.

The Speaker laid before the House the following joint resolution from the General Assembly of the State of California:

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3.

CHAPTER.....

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, relative to the establishment of definite lines of division between federal and state taxes, and the calling of a congress of the states to consider conflicting jurisdictions of the federal and state governments.

Whereas, In the exercise of its taxing power the federal government is embracing the sources of revenue heretofore not availed of by that government; and

Whereas, There exists a line which separates the taxable units that equitably and logically may be left solely to state taxation from the units logically belonging to the broader federal jurisdiction; and

Whereas, The establishment of some reasonable line of division giving to the states sole taxing authority below such line, and to the federal government sole taxing authority above such line, would cure much of the trouble existing because of conflict of jurisdiction between states; would relieve the tension between federal and state governments; would result in great economy in the levying and collection of taxes, and would relieve the growing dissatisfaction on the part of the taxpayer resulting from irritating and expensive duplication of accounts and reports and double taxation; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That we respectfully urge upon the congress of the United States and the legislatures of the several states the need of holding a congress of the states to consider the subject of federal and state resources of revenue, with the object of adopting and urging upon the congress of the United States a definite policy in the segregation of state and federal revenue; and we urge the legislatures of the other states to provide for attendance of representatives at such congress; and be it further

Resolved, That the President of the United States be invited to appoint a representative and that both houses of the congress of the United States be invited to appoint representatives to attend such conference; and be it further

Resolved, That the governor of the State of California is hereby requested to urge the governors of other states to recommend favorable action and to arrange for the time and place of such national meeting; and that the governor of California be authorized to appoint delegates to represent the State of California at such conference; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forthwith transmitted by the secretary of the senate to the president of the senate of the United States and to the speaker of the house of representatives of the United States; a copy hereof to each member of congress from the State of California, and a copy to the president of the senate and to the speaker in the house of representatives of each of the state legislatures in session at this time.

Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Fraser Metzger, the member from Randolph.

Mr. Dunham of Brattleboro offered the following resolution:

(H. R. 14.) Whereas the House of Representatives has learned with deep sorrow of the death of Hermon E. Eddy, a senator from Windham County; therefore,

Resolved by the House of Representatives: That we hereby express our appreciation of the loss which the State has sustained through the death of this citizen whose lovable personality, marked ability and sterling character had already placed him in the front rank of the young men of Vermont.

Resolved, that the Speaker appoint a committee of three members to attend the funeral of Senator Eddy and that the Clerk of the House be instructed to send to his family a copy of these resolutions.

Which was read and adopted.

In accordance with the provisions of the foregoing resolution so directing, the Speaker appointed as the members of the committee to attend the funeral of Senator Eddy,

Mr. Dunham of Brattleboro,
Cudworth of Londonderry,
Tenney of Dummerston.

Mr. Stoddard, from the committee on state institutions, presented the following report:

To the House of Representatives:

The Committee on State Institutions, on the occasion of its visit to Brandon, took the opportunity of visiting the Industrial School at Vergennes. Since the school is located on the direct route to Brandon, the visit could be made without expense to the State. The inspection was further induced by the urgent and courteous invitation of the chairman of the penal board. The committee found the institution in such an excellent condition and doing such remarkable work, that it believes it to be a part of its duty to give the House the benefit of its finding.

The property is in a most excellent condition, all the buildings, stock and equipment giving evidence of the best of care. It was clearly manifest that the management of the institution is of the highest order, and the results produced in the training of nearly three hundred boys and girls cannot be too highly commended. The boys and girls give evidence of the best of care and discipline, not the least factor of which being the personal interest shown in the children by instructors, superintendent and chairman of the penal board.

The State can ill afford to curtail the usefulness of this institution. It has been necessary to request that no more applicants be sent because of lack of accommodations. It is recommended that an appropriation be made for further facilities for housing the children who are, of necessity, wards of the State.

JOHN F. STODDARD,

For the Committee.

Which was read and referred to the committee on appropriations.

Mr. Williams of Proctor moved that the House return to the Senate, agreeably to its request, House bill, entitled

H. 167. An act to amend sections 51 and 53 of No. 64 of the Acts of 1915, relating to school attendance; providing for granting of excuses by school directors and notice for non-attendance;

Which was agreed to.

S. 91. An act making an appropriation for unselected highways;

To the committee on corporations and franchises.

Joint resolution from the Senate as follows:

(J. R. S. 13.) Whereas, The federal government is encroaching more and more upon the sources of revenue heretofore reserved for purposes of state taxation; and

Whereas, This encroachment is felt particularly in the case of income and inheritance taxes, both of which forms of taxes are in danger of being dried up as sources of state revenue; and

Whereas, In both these fields of taxation there exists a line which separates the taxable units that equitably and logically may be left solely to state taxation from the units logically belonging to the broader federal jurisdiction; and

Whereas, The establishment of some reasonable line of division, giving to the states sole taxing authority below such line, and to the federal government sole taxing authority above such line, would cure much of the trouble, existing because of conflict of jurisdiction between states; would relieve the tension between federal and state governments; would result in great economy in the administration of the tax; and would relieve the growing dissatisfaction on the part of the taxpayer resulting from irritating and expensive duplication of accounts and reports and double taxation; now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives: That we respectfully urge action by the Congress of the United States and the legislatures of the several states, to the effect that the federal income and inheritance tax law be amended so that upon acceptance and compliance by the different states, the federal tax will be withdrawn upon incomes and estates which reasonably and logically should be reserved for purposes of state revenue; and be it further

Resolved, That concerted and uniform action on the part of the states is of such vital importance that we recommend the holding of a congress of the states to consider the subject of federal encroachment upon state resources of revenue with the object of adopting and urging upon the Congress of the United States a definite policy in the segregation of state and federal revenue; be it and further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forthwith transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the President of the Senate of the United States and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States; a copy herewith to each member of Congress from the State of Vermont, and a copy to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of each of the state legislatures in session at this time.

Was read and referred to the committee on federal relations.

Sec. 12. This act shall take effect on the first day of November, 1917, provided a majority of the women entitled to vote under the provisions of this act shall vote "Yes" and provided that if a majority of the women entitled to vote under the provisions of this act shall not vote "Yes" then this act shall take effect on the first day of November, 1930, but as to sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, this act shall take effect from its passage.

L., as proposed) shall include a highway or thoroughfare of any kind used by the public, whether actually dedicated to the public and accepted by the proper authorities or otherwise. Wherever the terms "reasonable care," "due care" or terms of like import are used in this act they shall be taken to mean such care as a reasonably cautious and prudent person would have used under the same or similar circumstances.

Sec. 2. A person shall not operate or cause to be operated a vehicle of any kind upon any of the public highways of this state contrary to any of the following provisions:

(1) Meeting. Vehicles meeting while moving in opposite directions shall exercise due care and shall each keep to the right of the center of the highway so as to pass without interference, and at a rate of speed not exceeding twenty miles an hour.

(2) Right of way. Except as hereinafter provided, all vehicles shall give the right of way to other vehicles approaching at intersecting highways from the right; and shall have right of way over those approaching from the left; provided that street cars and plainly designated police department, fire department and United States mail vehicles and ambulances shall at all times have the right of way over other vehicles; and provided, further, that wherever traffic officers are stationed, they shall have full power to regulate traffic irrespective of the foregoing provisions.

(3) Intersecting highways. All intersection highways shall be approached and entered slowly and with due care to avoid accident. In making a turn to the right into an intersecting highway vehicles shall keep to the right of the center of both intersecting highways and close to the right-hand side of the same. In making a turn to the left into an intersecting highway, the operator or driver of the vehicle about to make such turn shall reduce speed as an indication of his intention to make the turn and pass to the right of and beyond the center of the highway intersection before turning.

(4) Overtaking. A vehicle overtaking another vehicle going in the same direction shall pass to the left of the vehicle so overtaken, but in so doing shall exercise due care and shall not pass to the left of the center of the highway unless the way ahead is clear of approaching traffic. The vehicle overtaken shall promptly, upon signal, turn as far as possible to the right-hand side of the highway in order to allow free passage on its left.

(5) Obstructed view. No vehicle shall pass another from the rear at the top of a hill or on a curve where the view ahead is in any wise obstructed, or while the vehicle ahead is crossing an intersecting highway or is about to turn into the same.

(6) Passing street cars. The driver or operator of every vehicle shall bring the same to a full stop not less than five feet from the rear of any street car headed in the same direction which has stopped for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers, and remain standing until such car has taken on or discharged its passengers, provided, however, that in cities, towns and villages where the streets are of sufficient width, outside of street car tracks, to permit the safe passage of vehicles under such circumstances this regulation may be modified by local ordinance or regulation.

(7) Slow moving vehicles. In cities, towns and villages or other places where vehicular traffic is heavy, slow-moving vehicles shall keep at all times as close to the right-hand side of the highway as reasonably practicable.

(8) Curves. All curves shall be approached and entered with due care to avoid accident, and all vehicles rounding the same shall keep as far to the right hand side of the highway as reasonably practicable, and proceed with due care to avoid accident.

(9) Divided streets and circular highways. On divided streets or other highways and also in passing around a circular driveway, all vehicles shall enter, keep and leave to the right unless traffic signs conspicuously posted indicate otherwise.

(10) Turning, stopping and backing. A person shall not turn or back a vehicle of any kind in a public highway without taking due and reasonable care to avoid injury to other users of the highway in so doing. A vehicle shall not be driven in a backward direction farther than is absolutely necessary to avoid accident, or to proceed on its way.

(11) Barriers. A person shall not drive any vehicle over any highway across which there is a barrier or a sign indicating that such highway is closed to public travel.

A person who violates a provision of this act shall be fined not more than fifty dollars.

Sec. 3. This act shall take effect from its passage.

The bill was read the second time, and pending the question, Shall the bill be amended as recommended by the committee? Mr. Rublee of Berkshire moved to amend the amendment,

First. By inserting a new section to be numbered section 3 as follows:

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1917.

Devotional exercises conducted by the Chaplain.

Mr. Metzger, from the committee on state institutions, offered the following report:

To the House of Representatives:

The committee on state institutions to which was assigned the duty of visiting and investigating the School for Feeble-Minded at Brandon respectfully report that they have made such investigation and beg leave to report their findings as follows:

The school has been passing through the unavoidable handicaps that attend the beginnings of any organization and, of necessity, presents the conditions that are concomitant with the early development of a new enterprise. The board of trustees to which has been assigned this task has discharged its duty at considerable personal sacrifice and with a thorough devotion to the task assigned it be the State.

The superintendent has given himself unreservedly to the work of establishing the school and putting it on a working basis. If any criticism were to be made against the work of the head of the institution, it would be to the effect that he has undertaken too much and endeavored to assume the responsibility of too many of the tasks involved in the management of the school. He is to be credited with a fine desire to aid to the extent of his strength and ability in carrying out the wishes of the board. The committee believes that a better division of labor will lend to greater efficiency especially with respect to the management of the farm.

From the testimony taken at the hearings, the committee is of the unanimous opinion that there is absolutely no foundation to the reports that the children are made to suffer from abusive treatment. The great weight of evidence would go to show that the children are well treated, are well fed, and their interests are solicitously attended to. The living quarters of the children are kept in the best of order and cleanliness is evidently an unbroken law of the school.

Some testimony was given which would tend to show that some of the children were not always clothed as warmly as could be desired. It was learned that some of the boys were allowed to work out of doors during the cold weather when they were without sufficient clothing. This condition, however, did not prevail to such a degree as to warrant a charge of abuse.

Much creditable testimony was given with respect to the friendly interest taken in the children and it is believed that when the school is established in the new quarters which will be ready for occupancy this coming summer, the children will be much better cared for than is possible under existing conditions.

FRASER METZGER,

The Speaker laid before the House the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on Senate proposals of amendment to House bill, entitled

H. 16. An act to amend section 3033 of the Public Statutes, relating to the solemnization of marriages.

As follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on House bill, No. 16, respectfully report that they have considered the same and recommend,

First. That the Senate's first proposal of amendment be amended by inserting after the word "issued" the following:

But this provision shall not apply to persons while enlisted in the military or naval service of the United States.

Second. That the House concur in the Senate proposals of amendment.

HAMILTON S. PECK,
M. A. ADAMS,
A. LEE CADY,

Committee on the part of the Senate.

GEORGE L. DUNHAM,
A. L. FOGG,

Majority Committee on the part of the House.

Mr. Aiken, one of the conferees on the part of the House, presented the following minority report:

The undersigned, a minority of the House committee of conference, appointed to consider House bill, No. 16, begs leave to submit the following statement of his views.

1st. The minority recommends that the House refuse to concur in the Senate's proposal of amendment, and that the report of the committee of conference be rejected, in that,—

(a) The amendment as proposed clearly violates section 1, Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which forbids a state to "deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the law."

See Powell vs. Penn., 127 U. S. 678.

Pembina Consol. Min. and Mill. Co. vs. Penn., 125 U. S. 181.

Haynes vs. Mo., 120 U. S. 68.

Lowe vs. Kansas, 163 U. S. 81.

Dobbins vs. Los Angeles, 195 U. S. 223.

Chy Lung vs. Freeman, 92 U. S. 275.

Shedroi vs. Vermont, 75 Vt. 277.

(b) The amendment as proposed contravenes Art. 7 of the Vermont Constitution, which says "that the government is, or ought to be instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security of the people, nation, or community, and not for the particular emolument or disadvantage of any single man, family, or set of men, who are a part only of that community."

Thus the proposed amendment is in violation of both Federal and State Constitutions in that it subjects citizens in one town, or under certain conditions, to burdens to which other citizens are not subject.

(c) The minority believes that the House would, in passing a bill which is so questionable, and upon which there is such a diversity of opinion, subject itself to severe criticism for the enactment of a law under which the first difficulty would probably lead to action in our courts.

(d) The minority also believes that the proposed amendment is contrary to the spirit of unity and reciprocity which has heretofore existed between the towns and communities and has immeasurably furthered the unity of action of the State as a whole; and that it is unfair legislation which would impose upon persons residing in a town which has no one qualified, or capable, to perform the marriage ceremony, burdens which it does not impose upon citizens of adjoining towns.

Secondly. The minority charges that the report of the committee is void and of no effect, in that;

(a) The committee has conducted itself in such a disorderly and unparliamentary manner as to render its decision valueless.

(b) The committee has placed itself in a doubtful position by introducing matter in no way referred to it, and for the purpose of expediting the acceptance of its report, rather than for the improvement of the bill under consideration.

The following is a statement of the facts as regards (a). The first meeting of the committee was held March 21, after adjournment in the afternoon. A secretary was appointed but kept no records whatever because, as he said "they weren't worth keeping." The senator from Windsor was not present, nor was he present at any of the meetings of the committee except the one following the signing of the report. The undersigned was given no opportunity to speak, as is required by all parliamentary usage.

The second meeting was held on March 22 after adjournment in the afternoon. No agreement was reached.

The third meeting was called for March 23, at 1 P. M. The senator from Windsor and the senator from Orleans were not present, in connection with which the minority would call the attention of the members of the Assembly to the following rules of procedure, to be found in the Legislative Directory, Manual of Parliamentary Practice;

Page 296. A committee of conference is not a heterogeneous committee, acting as one committee, but two committees, each acting by a majority. and

Page 287. A committee can act only when together, and not be separate consultation and consent, nothing being the report of the committee but what has been agreed to in committee actually assembled.

The committee report as written was not signed by the members in committee assembled.

The senators from Orelans and Windsor were not even present. Authority was claimed by the senator from Chittenden to sign the name of the senator from Windsor. The senator from Orleans signed the report the day following the final conference and did not know about the conference of the day before.

The representative from Underhill did not sign in committee but was approached by the chairman of the House committee and signed the report outside of the committee.

The representative from Putney did not sign the report, was not requested to sign and was not shown the report until four days after the report was decided upon. At that time the committee was called together again with the statement that it was the sole purpose of the meeting to request the member from Putney to sign the report, which he refused to do.

He was then asked if he wished to enter a protest at the foot of the report. Considering the slipshod and chaotic manner in which the business of the committee had been conducted the member from Putney refused to have any further connection with the report or the committee, and trusted to the fair-mindedness of the House to consider justly and impartially the facts as they are presented to it.

There was no formal vote on the matter under consideration.

All this evidence would seem to show conclusively that the leaders of the majority by working upon each member separately and not in the committee assembled, has led them to believe that the committee had reached an amicable agreement and in this manner secured their signatures to the report.

Bearing these things in mind will the members of the House please consider the following common and requisite rules of parliamentary law:—

First. Paul's Parliamentary Law, page 56,

The question referred to them, (the committee) must be considered in a meeting where a majority of the members are present.

Secondly. Communications with the several members on the subject by telephone (and the House will notice that the senator from Windsor was consulted by telephone) does not constitute such conference, and will not be considered sufficient should the question of a meeting be raised.

Thirdly. Hollisters' Manual. Page 143.

In regard to its form of proceeding a committee is essentially a miniature assembly—it can act only when regularly assembled together, as a committee, and not by separate consultation and consent of the members; nothing being the report of the committee but what is agreed to in that manner; a vote taken in committee is as binding as a vote of the Assembly, a majority of the members is necessary to constitute a quorum for business, unless a larger or smaller number is fixed by the House itself.

Lastly. Gaine's Revision of Cushing's Manual. Page 143.

In case the committee is small the proceedings may become much the nature of an informal conference, but should always close with formal action on the report.

Also—In small committees oppressive strictness in the observance of formalities is needless. The final vote however should always be formal.

The members of the House can readily see that all these regulations are necessary for a fair consideration of both sides of the question. The committee of conference having violated all of these the minority would respectfully submit that the report of the committee is worthless and ought to be rejected.

Signed:

E. W. AIKEN.

After discussion on the question of the adoption of the report of the majority, Mr. Ranney of West Windsor moved that debate on the pending question do now cease; dollars annually, the first of such annual payments to be made not later than year after the date of such bonds, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding four (4) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. Such bonds shall bear date and be issued at such time as the state treasurer and governor shall determine, and shall contain on the face thereof a statement that they are issued for the purposes herein mentioned, under authority of and in conformity with this act, and such statement shall be conclusive evidence of the fact of the liability of the state to any bona fide holder thereof, and the bonds so issued shall be the lawful obligations of the state. The date, place of payment and rate of interest and other particulars as to the form of such bonds, within the limitations mentioned herein, shall be determined by the treasurer as he may deem for the best interests of the state.

Which was disagreed to (On a division: Yes 75, No 110.)

Sec. 8. The treasurer is hereby authorized to sell such bonds at not less than par, after soliciting bids for the same in such manner as he shall deem for the best interests of the state, reserving, however, the right to reject any and all bids, and to sell at private sale any bonds not so sold. The acceptance of any bid for and the award of such bonds shall be countersigned by the secretary of state and the auditor of accounts. The treasurer shall keep an accurate record of each and every bond issued, the number and denomination of such bond; when issued, when and where payable, to whom issued and the rate of interest thereon, and shall keep an accurate record of all payments of interest and principal, and when coupons or bonds are paid shall deface and cancel the same. Such bonds shall be exempt from taxation in this state.

Sec. 9. The proceeds arising from the sale of such bonds, including any premium from the sale thereof, shall be applied to the purposes herein named, but no purchaser of such bonds shall be in any way bound to see to the proper application of the proceeds thereof. The amount necessary each year to pay the maturing principal and interest of such bonds shall be included in and made a part of the annual appropriation bill for the expense of the state government. Principal and interest on such bonds shall be paid by the treasurer as the same fall due, without further order or authority.

Sec. 10. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed, in so far as the same relate to the subject matter of this act.

Sec. 11. This act shall take effect from its passage.

MONDAY APRIL 2, 1917.

The Speaker presiding.

Devotional exercises conducted by the Chaplain.

A message was received from the Senate by Mr. Taft, their Assistant Secretary, as follows:

I am directed to inform the House that the Senate has passed a bill, entitled

S. 57. An act granting to Elisha N. Goodsell a ferry across Lake Champlain between Grand Isle and Cumberland Head;

H. 434. An act to provide equipment and supplies for the military forces of the State;

And has passed the same in concurrence.

(J. R. S. 19.) Joint resolution relating to the payment of the commissioner's expenses in re boundary case pending between Vermont and New Hampshire;

In the adoption of which the concurrence of the House is requested.

It has considered joint resolution originating in the House, entitled

(J. R. H. 31.) Joint resolution relating to universal military training;

And has adopted the same in concurrence.

The Speaker laid before the House the report of the joint special committee authorized by joint resolution, entitled

(J. R. H. 18.) Joint resolution relating to the appointment of a joint special committee to investigate the Brattleboro Retreat at Brattleboro and to provide for expenses of said committee.

As follows:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives:

The special joint committee appointed to visit the Brattleboro Retreat at Brattleboro, to take into consideration, investigate and report upon the management of said institution and the care and treatment of persons who have been or are now confined therein, and as to the honest and faithful performance of all the duties of the officers thereof, reports as follows:

The committee are disposed, by way of preface, to offer the briefest possible outline of the foundation of the Retreat.

In 1834 a ten thousand dollar bequest created a trust for the purpose of providing a suitable place for the proper care and treatment of insane persons, and thus was founded Brattleboro Retreat. The trust provided for a self perpetuating board of four trustees. In the same year the trust or trustees were incorporated by an act of the General Assembly of the State of Vermont and the act of incorporation was made subject to amendment by any future legislature "so far as to provide for the more perfect and effectual accomplishment of the objects of this act."

From this small beginning the Retreat has grown to its present large proportions, consisting of some twenty-five hundred acres of land and numerous expensive buildings, including the so-called Retreat, Lawton Hall and Linden Lodge. At different periods between 1834 and 1912 the State has contributed to the repairs and improvements of the buildings, all told, the sum of thirty-seven thousand dollars and has an equitable lien on the property for the return of this sum, contingent upon the event that the Retreat should cease to be a charitable institution. The growth and development of the Retreat is, therefore, the result of private benefactions and great ability and foresight in management.

Your committee upon being appointed immediately proceeded to Brattleboro and made a careful inspection of the buildings of the Retreat, the condition of the rooms; the kitchen and dining room arrangements, laundry, heating and ventilating systems, fire escapes and fire protection equipment; the condition of the patients as to being clothed and the facilities for proper treatment and care of the patients and the quantity and quality of the food.

Our inspection of the rooms on the eighteen wards included each room on each ward. On the whole we find these rooms clean. The mattresses of the beds on the whole are poor. The bedding, except upon the back halls, where the more disturbed class of patients are kept, was clean. Each ward is supplied with proper toilet and bath arrangements with sanitary plumbing.

The recently installed heating and ventilating system we consider entirely adequate and satisfactory.

Our examination of the kitchen, bakery, cold storage and food supplies on hand, together with invoices of supplies bought by the institution and all evidence introduced upon this subject show the food purchased to be of good quality and sufficient in quantity.

The food is well cooked considering the quantity necessarily consumed and the same is served in as good condition as can be expected with the present facilities, construction of the buildings, and the distance of the ward dining rooms from the kitchen, which dining room and kitchen arrangements, in the opinion of your committee, make it impossible to satisfactorily serve the food and is the direct cause for the complaints of poor food. The dining rooms are poorly ventilated and unattractive.

We find the number and location of fire escapes, particularly on the main building, to be inadequate and in case of fire serious loss of life might result. We recommend that this matter be taken up with the State Board of Health and that the institution conform to the requirements of such Board.

Charges that the institution is infested with vermin were made before this committee and we find respecting these charges that these conditions exist to some extent, due to the age of some of the buildings and the nature of the institution. These pests are constantly combated by the management.

Your committee, after completing their examination at Brattleboro, proceeded to hear the evidence presented before it. Seventy-nine witnesses appeared and testified before the committee. Your committee have given all persons having complaint to make respecting the management of the institution of the treatment of patients therein an opportunity to be heard, and have required all witnesses to appear and testify who had any information or knowledge concerning the subject matter of the investigation. The Retreat has been represented by competent counsel. The Board of Trustees has been represented at all the hearings and the institution given full opportunity to be heard.

Among the witnesses appearing before the committee were the trustees, superintendent, assistant physician, nurses, attendants and employees of the institution, former nurses and attendants, discharged patients, members of the State Board of Supervisors of the Insane, physicians connected with other institutions and others interested in the welfare of patients confined in the Retreat. One thousand twenty-one typewritten pages of testimony were taken.

Your committee find that there is an insufficient number of attendants employed by the institution; that they are in some instances untruthful and unreliable; that there is a lack of supervision of their work, and no attempt to improve the efficiency of attendants by any method of systematic instruction; that the standard of wages offered for attendants is so low and the work is of such a nature that few trustworthy persons are attracted from other occupations to become permanently identified with the institution, which in a measure accounts for the constantly changing and unsatisfactory force of attendants employed. We find that for a period of three years past the average number of attendants in both the men's and women's wards has been but 65% of the requisite number as shown by the testimony of the officers of the institution.

Various complaints of general ill treatment of patients by attendants were laid before your committee, and these were thoroughly investigated by us. Your committee find that patients have been ill treated by attendants and the evidence tended to show that in some cases patients have been knocked down and otherwise abused by attendants, but without the knowledge of those in charge of the institution. We find that such abuses would not be tolerated if known to the officers of the institution, and in all such cases coming to the knowledge of Dr. Lawton or his assistants the attendants have been discharged. Such supervision of attendants should be enforced as will certainly prevent occurrences of this kind.

THE GUILFORD CASE.

In this case the following charges were made by Mrs. Hattie M. Guilford:

1. That she was put into a straight jacket and tied to a bed and left there for several days at a time, and while in a straight jacket, she was compelled to eat her food from a tin plate placed on the floor of her room.
2. That she was knocked down three times a week, and on one occasion was struck with a piece of iron or lead pipe, leaving a scar upon her head.
3. That she was thrown on to a bed by an attendant and her head pounded against the wall until she became unconscious.
4. That she was put into a place (dungeon) under the floor of her room and left there for two days without food or water.
5. That attendants inflicted wounds upon her arms and chest.
6. That she saw a patient killed in the hall by the night watchman.
7. That she was compelled to take an oath not to disclose the truth respecting conditions at the Retreat.
8. That she sustained a broken jaw while confined at the Retreat.

With reference to the first seven charges as made by Mrs. Guilford your committee find the charges unsupported by the evidence.

As to the eighth charge your committee find that Mrs. Guilford's jaw has been broken, but we are unable to find from the evidence that she sustained this injury while she was a patient at the Retreat.

Your committee find that the Retreat disclaimed liability for the injuries claimed by Mrs. Guilford to have been sustained while at the Retreat, but to avoid expense of suit and publicity settled her claim for damages by paying her one thousand dollars.

THE CLEMENT CASE.

Complaint was made that Mrs. Lillian Searles Clement was not properly cared for at the Retreat.

Your committee find that Lillian Searles Clement, the wife of Foster R. Clement, was taken to the Retreat on September, 9 1915, in a much disturbed condition of mind; that she was confined there nine weeks and two days; that it was extremely difficult to care for her properly owing to the habits peculiar to the form of insanity from which she was suffering; that she was visited there by friends and relatives and found naked, in a room without furniture, in a much neglected condition; that she was destructive in her tendencies. Your committee find that the Retreat should have given Mrs. Clement closer care and attention. We think Mrs. Clement might and should have been supplied with clothing adapted to her condition and needs and that measures should be taken to provide such patients with proper clothing and proper furnishings should be placed in rooms where this class of patients must be confined.

THE BARRETT CASE.

In this case it was claimed that one W. E. Barrett, a patient at the Retreat, from January, 1912 to July, 1912, sustained injuries to his nose and forehead.

Your committee investigated this matter very fully and are unable to find that the patient was injured while at the Retreat. We find that during the latter part of his confinement there Mr. Barret failed rapidly and death was the result of the disease from which he was suffering at the time of his commitment.

THE GRACE ADAMS CASE.

In this case the Retreat was charged with neglect of Grace Adams, while she was a patient at the Retreat suffering from insanity, in that she was permitted to swallow a nail, pieces of glass, a piece of wire and a darning needle which necessitated an operation. Your committee find that Mrs. Adams was permitted through lack of necessary attention to procure and swallow these articles; that the claim made against the Retreat and the expenses of the operation and treatment incurred as a result of such neglect were paid by the Retreat to the amount of about four hundred dollars.

THE JOSEPH C. JONES CASE.

Mr. Jones was a patient at the Retreat for inebriety and claimed to have been choked and dragged across the street by attendants and later claimed that he had sustained damages and brought suit against one Hills, a night watchman at the Retreat, who assisted in restraining Jones while under the influence of liquor, claiming that Hills was liable for those injuries.

Your committee find that no unnecessary restraint was used in this case; however, the Retreat paid approximately seventy-five dollars in settlement of the claim of Mr. Jones.

THE C. H. SMITH CASE.

This patient was brought to the Retreat on May 28, 1914, from Springfield, Massachusetts, for treatment as an alcoholic. It was claimed that Smith, while confined on ward 3, was knocked down and kicked by an attendant and severely injured and that night was removed to another ward and a few days later died.

Your committee have carefully investigated this case and are unable to find that death was the result of the alleged ill treatment. We do find that because the patient refused to remove his clothing as quickly as desired by an attendant, that he was knocked down and kicked several times. The evidence as to the extent and character of the injuries inflicted was indefinite. We find that on the evening following this ill treatment Smith was removed from his room on the third ward to a room upon another ward and the record of this case at the Retreat shows: "August 14, 1914. Patient died today, cerebral effusion (hemorrhage) is given is the exact cause of death. Meningitis was a contributing cause."

Concerning the settlement made by the Retreat in the Guilford Adams and Jones cases the committee find that the Retreat in each case disclaimed liability for the damages claimed but to avoid the expense of suit and publicity, considered it for the best interests of the Retreat to settle these claims.

The settlement of a threatened law suit is oftentimes a combination of expediency, to save expense of litigation, to avoid publicity and to avoid the possible miscarriage of justice. An insane asylum cannot afford to settle a threatened law suit for any or all of the foregoing reasons, but only when it is fully satisfied that some of its servants have been guilty of such negligence or misconduct as may be actionable against the asylum and then the fullest publicity should be by it given to the entire subject matter.

The unfortunate Clement incident is the result of a mistaken policy. The Retreat is not so equipped with isolated apartments that it can from any asthetic view point satisfactorily care for certain types of insanity without recourse to the usual restraint and should have so advised in the case referred to.

The Board of Trustees who have the immediate oversight of the Retreat are known throughout the State as men of the highest character and of great ability.

The State Board of Supervisors, upon whom rests the duty of visiting the Retreat once each month, is composed of Dr. Steele, of Montpelier, Dr. Bryant, of Ludlow, and Dr. Pelton, of Richford, and these eminent physicians have discharged the duty imposed upon them by the state.

We find that in some instances the officers of the Retreat have known of the intended visits of this Board but this has happened only occasionally and from all the evidence we are unable to find that unusual or special preparation has been made in anticipation of these visits. The evidence tended to show that the supervisors have investigated cases of claimed abuse of patients by attendants, but failed to find any ground for such complaints. We find that the Board has given careful attention to the matter of investigating cases of State patients that should be discharged and we are unable to find any instance where a patient has not been discharged as soon as their condition warranted.

Your committee made no extensive examination of the books of account of the institution, but investigated the system of accounting and find that this system is modern and sufficient in all respects.

Your committee find that owing to the resignation of Dr. Ernest L. Tracy, an assistant physician at the Retreat that Dr. Lawton has, since November, 1916, had but one assistant physician; that this assistant physician is compelled to attend one hundred or more patients especially needing the attention of a physician each day; that conditions demand that at least two assistant physicians be employed for the proper care and welfare of the patients, and your committee believe this to be the policy of the institution.

Your committee find that under present economic conditions the cost of maintenance to the institution per week for each patient is $5.84 3-10. The Retreat is now under contract with the State to board, clothe, care for, and provide medical treatment and nursing for all State patients that the necessities of the State require it to take for the sum of $4.00 per week. For the past year there has been an average of about three hundred State patients supported at the Retreat. The Retreat claims that the deficit arising therefrom not only precludes the institution from making needed changes and improvements but is involving it in debt. Although this question is foreign to the duty imposed upon the committee, yet the committee would respectfully advise that the proper State Department inquire into the subject at an early date and if the contention of the Retreat is well founded make such modification of the contract as justice requires, for the State can afford to be just as well as exact.

Your committee would also respectfully recommend that the State, through its proper officials and the Retreat, through its Trustees, cooperate to discover some satisfactory common ground for an agreement to the end that the State become a Trustee of the institution. Thus, while preserving the autonomy of the Retreat, giving the State an official voice in its policy, management and further upbuilding without financial responsibility unless by special legislation.

The Retreat is termed in law as eleemosynary institution and may not be owned or held by the State or by a corporation or by individuals for profit. The unfortunates who must be restrained and cared for at an insane asylum obviously are not limited to the so-called pauper class, but come from all conditions of life and the State is vitally interested in the proper maintenance and supervision of such an institution.

Your committee have neglected no source of information. All the evidence, both for and against the Retreat, has been carefully weighed and contrasted and finally measured up in the light of comparative merit and rational probability.

Your committee recommend that in the event it becomes the policy of the State to enlarge its institution at Waterbury that that institution be so enlarged that all patients supported by the State can be there cared for.

Respectfully submitted,

W. H. FAIRCHILD,
LINUS LEAVENS,
Senate Committee.

State of Vermont.

Executive Department.

Montpelier, April 5, 1917.

To the House of Representatives:

I have the honor to return herewith, without my approval, House bill No. 300, entitled "An Act to reorganize the state board of health", for the following reasons:

Section 4 of this bill in its original form imposed on the state board of health the duties heretofore imposed on the supervisors of the insane. Section 5 of this bill in its original form repealed sections 3441, 3442, 3445 and 6163 of the Public Statutes. These sections created the office of supervisors of the insane, provided for filling vacancies in such offices, required such officers to make reports and fixed the salaries of the supervisors. This bill was amended by striking out section 4; hence, if the bill became a law, the office of supervisors of the insane would be abolished and the duties heretofore devolving upon such officers would not be imposed upon any other officers.

Yours very respectfully,

HORACE F. GRAHAM,

Governor.

Which was read, whereupon, the House proceeded to the reconsideration of its vote whereby it passed House bill, entitled

H. 300. An act to reorganize the state board of health.

And the question being, Will the House pass the bill, notwithstanding the objections of His Excellency, the Governor? It was decided in the negative.

Was read and referred to the special joint committee on the Revision of the Laws.

The Speaker laid before the House the report of the special joint committee on the revision of the laws, as follows:

REPORT OF THE JOINT SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REVISION OF THE LAWS.

Part I.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Early during the present session of the General Assembly, a proposed revision of the statute laws of the State entitled "General Laws of Vermont," was submitted to the Assembly by Hale K. Darling who had been appointed as commissioner to prepare such revision by the justices of the supreme court, under No. 242 of the Acts of 1915.

Following the course usually taken in this State with reference to a work of this character, it was, by joint resolution approved Jan. 16, 1917, provided "that the judiciary committee of the Senate and House shall constitute a joint special committee to whom shall be referred the report of the commissioner appointed to prepare and submit a revision of the laws of this State, under the provisions of No. 242 of the Acts of 1915." By another joint resolution, approved Jan. 10, 1917, it was provided that said commissioner be "directed to attend before the legislative committees having the revision in charge, during the present session, and that said committees be hereby authorized to employ such stenographic assistance as may be required to expedite their work in connection with such revision," etc.

Pursuant to these joint resolutions, the joint special committee created by the first one has examined the proposed revision: and in accordance with the second one the commissioner has attended upon the committee and it has also had the benefit of stenographic assistance.

On Jan. 19, 1917, the joint special committee was divided into six subcommittees of three members each, and at that time the bulk of the work was assigned to the respective subcommittees.

Later on other parts of the revision not previously assigned, were assigned either to some of the subcommittees as first appointed, or to other members of the full committee.

On account of the ordinary legislative duties of the members of the joint special committee, and because of the fact that nearly all of said members were chairmen of other important committees, it has not been found feasible to have and maintain stated meetings of the various subcommittees: but meetings of such committees have been held and the work has been done at such times as would best suit the convenience of the members of the committee, and when they were not engaged in their ordinary duties. In some instances, when one or more members of a particular subcommittee have been necessarily absent, their places have been filled by members of other subcommittees, and instances have occurred where some of the subcommittees have proceeded to do business without a quorum; but in each case of such irregular procedure, the action of the incomplete portion of the particular subcommittee has been ratified by all of its members.

The proposed revision, as reported, has been carefully compared with the pre-existing statutes of a public nature proper to be included in a revision, and every substantial change recommended by the commissioner, the reasons therefore, and its effect upon other sections of the statutes have been carefully considered.

Numerous changes in form and in substance have been recommended by your joint special committee; and they are each and all indicated on the copy of the General Laws submitted with this report, as a bill to be enacted by the General Assembly.

In the notes following the report, attention is directed to each substantial change recommended by your committee; but numerous changes have been made in matters of punctuation, and alterations of a merely verbal character not affecting the sense of the particular section are recommended, and appear upon the copy submitted herewith.

As to these last named changes, no comment or explanation seems necessary to be made by us.

The joint special committee unanimously recommends the enactment of the proposed revision with the corrections and additions recommended by us; and we also submit herewith a copy of a bill, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Publication of the General Laws," which we recommend should be enacted with the proposed revision.

At a comparatively early date in the Session, the committee sustained a great loss in the death of Senator Eddy, who was chairman of subcommittee No. 4, to which had been assigned title ten, relating to Public Revenue, but the work assigned to that subcommittee had been practically completed before his death, so that said title, as reported, with the exception of chapters 46, 47, 48 and 49, represents the results of conferences of the particular subcommittee at which he was present. His service on this work was extremely valuable and his wide knowledge of our statute law made him one of our most useful members.

We feel that mention should also be made of the fact that whenever called upon Messrs. John N. Harvey and Julius A. Willcox, who served as assistants to the commissioner in the preparation of the proposed revision, have attended meetings of the various subcommittees and have rendered all the aid in their power in the way of explaining changes or additions recommended in the proposed revision.

In the course of our work upon this revision, several instances have arisen in which members of the legislature and others have requested certain matters in the line of new legislation to be enacted as a part of the revision. Your committee has taken the view that to amend the revision by inserting matters of this character would be entirely out of place, and that the proper way to enact independent legislation is through the ordinary channels,—that is, by the introduction of a bill for that purpose and its reference to the appropriate committee.

We have proceeded upon the theory that the scope of our duties was confined to examining the revision as proposed, and think that it would be decidedly improper for us to undertake to enact any new legislation by tacking it on to a section or chapter of the revision.

Attention is particularly directed to the fact that where certain sections or chapters of the proposed revision have been amended or repealed by acts of the present session of the General Assembly, no attempt has been made to correct them in the General Laws as submitted for your action. To undertake to do this would be a task that could not be completed in time for a seasonable adjournment, and would be simply a matter of editorial work, the performance of which the proposed editorial bill is designed to effect. By force of the proposed editorial bill, that phase of the work is adequately provided for; and as will be seen by section 7306 of the General Laws, as proposed, it is expressly provided that

“Acts of the General Assembly of nineteen hundred and seventeen, inconsistent with sections of the General Laws, shall be construed to have been passed after such sections, and shall take precedence of them.”

For the joint special committee,

MELVIN G. MORSE,
Chairman Senate Committee.

ADDISON E. CUDWORTH,
Chairman House Committee.

Montpelier, April 3, 1917.

JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE
OF THE
STATE OF VERMONT

SPECIAL SESSION, 1916

Journal of the House

OF THE

State of Vermont

SPECIAL SESSION, 1916

THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1916.

In accordance with the proclamation of His Excellency, the Governor, the members of the House of Representatives convened at the State House in Montpelier on the twenty-fourth day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

At ten o'clock in the forenoon, Hon. John E. Weeks, Speaker, called the House to order, when devotional exercises were conducted by the Chaplain, James H. Wills.

The proclamation of the Governor was read by the Clerk and is as follows:

By Charles W. Gates, Governor.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, the Vermont troops are now serving in the United States army to preserve and maintain peace and protect our citizens on the Mexican border;

Whereas, such service is being willingly and patriotically performed by our men at a sacrifice to personal interest and duty to family and home;

Whereas, it appears that the compensation received by these men is not sufficient to meet their needs and the needs of their families and that if provision is not soon made for such purpose such families must become subject to charity;

Therefore, I, Charles W. Gates, Governor of the State of Vermont, do hereby, by virtue of the Constitution in this respect, summon the members of the Senate and House of Representatives to meet in Montpelier in their respective chambers in the State House, together with the officers of the two Houses, on the 24th day of August A. D. 1916, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to provide for such compensation to Vermont troops, in addition to United States pay, and for such relief to their families and their dependents as may seem advisable.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the state this 16th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, and the Independence of the United States one hundred and forty-first.
